Debate Shapes Up on French Atomic Tests

Asian-African Group Submits Resolution To UN Asking Ban

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A lively debate shaped up today in the General Assembly on an Asian-African resolution opposing French atomic tests in the Sahara Desert.

A key group of delegates faced the choice of offending France or making an exception for her after going on record Thursday night against further nuclear weapon tests.

The showdown is slated after the assembly gives quick and unanimous approval to a U.S.-Soviet proposal to turn all disarmament proposals over to the 10-nation East-West conference opening in Geneva in February.

Approval Is Formality

The disarmament resolution is sponsored by all 82 members, so their approval in the assembly is a formality.

With that out of the way, the assembly turns to an Asian-African resolution expressing grave concern over the French plans to test an atomic bomb in the Sahara and calling on France not to hold the test.

The assembly's political committee, which includes all 82 U.N. members, approved the resolution last week. But the 46-26 vote (with 10 abstentions) fell short of the two-thirds majority required for assembly approval. At the time, there was speculation that the vote would fall similarly short in the assembly and France would eke out a technical victory.

But Thursday night the political committee, by a 60-1 vote, approved a separate appeal to all nations to refrain from nuclear weapon tests, without mentioning the Sahara project. France cast the lone negative vote. The United States and Britain were among 17 nations abstaining.

Plan To Go Ahead

France has made clear she intends to go ahead with the desert tests within a few months — with or without the approval of the General Assembly.

The Asian-African bloc charged the French project would turn the Sahara into a no man's land and endanger thousands of lives. France has assured every precaution will be taken to safeguard the area around the test site and compared them to similar U.S. tests in New Mexico.

376 Hurt As Explosions Rip Chemical Plant

YOKOHAMA, Japan (AP)—A fire in a chemical plant touched off a series of gigantic explosions in a heavily populated Yokohama suburb today. More than 1,400 buildings were destroyed or damaged, and 376 persons were injured.

There was only one confirmed death, but authorities did not rule out the possibility that more dead would be found.

The death toll would have been huge, but word of the fire spread quickly. Before the explosions began, most of the workers within the plant had raced to cover in caves or behind earth and concrete bunkers built when the plant was a Japanese navy ammunition depot.

"It was worse than a bombing — like a gigantic earthquake," said one witness.

Windows were shattered for a mile around. Debris crashed through the roofs of homes and business houses. Cut and bleeding school children ran screaming from nearby classrooms.

The plant makes explosives for engineering and construction projects and some ammunition. Police ordered persons within a mile and a quarter radius to safer ground, fearing the raging fires would touch off warehouses of TNT and dynamite. But by nightfall, some seven hours after the first blast, the flames were under control and residents were allowed to return to their homes.

U.S. military ambulances and medical teams joined in aiding the injured.

Lesch Is Still 1st Ward Winner

No Changes Result From 3 Recounts

The outcome of three political races in the Nov. 3 general election was left unchanged Thursday night when the Columbiana County Election Board completed recounts of returns from sections of Salem, Elkrum Township and Columbiana village.

The new tabulation confirmed these results:

Albert Lesch, Democrat, as winner of the First Ward council seat in Salem over Rudolph M. Linder, Republican.

Walter Coie named to a third term as Elkrum Township trustee over Clifford F. Westover.

George R. Snoke, Republican, winner of a Columbiana village council post over Lloyd D. Crawford, Democrat.

In each case, the recounts were petitioned by the unsuccessful candidates.

Linder Lost by 9 Votes. The Salem recount covered all six precincts of the First Ward. The final tabulation showed Linder defeated by 9 votes, one more than the margin shown in the board's official count completed on Nov. 3.

The recount gave Lesch 601 to 592 for Linder. The official count showed 599 for Lesch and 591 for Linder, who had been in Council for 16 years.

The Columbiana village tabulation stood up unchanged without recount covered only Precinct B. In both the official count and the recount, Snoke received 798 and Crawford was given 759.

Three precincts were recounted in the Elkrum Township trustee race. The recount showed 149 for Coie and 147 for Westover. In the official count, Coie was credited with 150 and Westover was given 143. It was a net gain of 3 for Westover, as Coie lost one vote and Westover picked up 4.

Began at 6 p.m., the three recounts were completed at 9:30.

Former Elyria Mayor May Run For Congress

J. G. Keys, Ohio Road Safety Chief, Has DiSalle Blessing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Highway Safety Director J. Grant Keys, former Elyria mayor, today received the blessing of Gov. Michael V. DiSalle to run for Congress in the 13th District.

Asked by DiSalle at his weekly cabinet meeting whether he was going to run, Keys answered that he still had no comment.

"You will make a good one," the governor observed.

Called Likely Prospect. Keys has been talked about as a likely prospect for the Democratic nomination in the northern Ohio district and also as a possible candidate for state auditor.

Rep. A. D. Baumhart Jr., Republican of Vermilion, has announced he would not seek reelection in the district composed of Lorain, Erie, Huron and Sandusky counties.

Keys also urged a tighter security program for state property under the protection of the Highway Patrol. He said a number of typewriters and other equipment have been stolen from state buildings, apparently by insiders, and that damage has been caused by outsiders breaking in.

He did not estimate the total loss, nor say where the incidents occurred.

Asked About Resigning

State Highway Director Everett S. Preston has asked after the cabinet meeting about a published report that he is considering resigning because he hasn't had a free hand on appointments in his department.

"There is no basis to that rumor," he told newsmen.

Asked if he intended to resign, he replied: "No."

Preston told the cabinet that federal restrictions might prevent Ohio from letting 35½ million dollars worth of interstate highway contracts this month.

He said Ohio had advanced its own money to start construction early in the expectation of being reimbursed with federal funds.

"If we do not get this help it will make a terrific hole in our construction program," Preston said.

Preston plans to meet with highway officials in Washington next week. He expressed the hope the problem could be resolved.

New Volcano Cone Born In Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP)—A new volcano cone was born today as mighty Kilauea volcano spewed tons of glowing, molten lava and steaming rock 1,000 feet into the air from a week-old fiery vent.

The cone, half-moon in shape, began to rise around a 150-foot fissure in the southern wall of Kilauea Iki crater. It began to take shape after seven days of eruption flowed an estimated 10 million cubic yards of lava down the crater's gentle inner slope in a 100-foot wide river.

At the bottom of the crater, a lake of lava had risen to over 200 feet in depth. And it was rising at a rate of three feet an hour.

Seismologists continued to minimize any threat of an overflow, saying it would take weeks before Kilauea Iki — a mile wide and equally long — would spill over.

An overflow would not threaten surrounding farm land or the few hundred inhabitants of Volcano Village, about a mile north of the

Masterpieces from Italian Renaissance

Dozen Paintings Worth $10 Million Discovered

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—A Chicago art appraiser today

hailed a set of paintings dug out from under an immigrant's bed and a closet as "the greatest art find of the century." He said they're worth 8 to 10 million dollars.

Some art authorities weren't so sure. They said they'd like to see the works for themselves.

Alexander Zlatoff-Mirsky, art appraiser and restorer who has his own studio, declared 10 of the dozen paintings are masterpieces from the Italian Renaissance.

One of them he identified as the "Madallena" by Michelangelo de Caravaggio and valued at more than one million dollars.

Even an announcement of the discovery came Thursday in film-land attorney Jerry Giesler's office, a rift developed between the owners and their agent.

Alfonso Folio, 40, a television repairman, and his sister, Maria Folio Hataburda, of Pasadena said they were greatly disappointed that Charles di Renzo a friend who developed into their agent, had made the matter public.

Mrs. Hataburda's husband, Chester, said they don't know now whether the pictures will be offered for sale or exhibited. "It's all up in the air now," he said.

Zlatoff-Mirsky said the masterpieces were authenticated by Amadore Porcella, catalogist for the Vatican and an expert on Renaissance art. Porcella spent four months in Pasadena examining the works, Folio and Mrs. Hataburda said.

(In Rome, the director of the Vatican museums said Porcella was employed as a technician in the reorganization of the Vatican Art Galleries from 1933 to 1934 or 1935 but, according to available records, was not in charge of cataloging or evaluating and did not hold a top job. The director added that he had had no official connection with the Vatican for at least 24 years. An official of the Italian government arts department said Porcella is not on their list of

McDonald Calls Offer 'Same Old Package'

Differs With Firms' Estimate of Wage Boost In Proposal

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Hopes for a settlement in the nationwide steel dispute were dimmer today after the United Steelworkers spurned the newest proposal of the basic steel industry.

R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, disclosed the new offer Thursday. He said it was a "fair offer to do what can be done and still keep within non-inflationary bounds in the cost of steel production."

McDonald Raps Offer

USW President, David J. McDonald, termed the proposal as "something only a company-controlled union would accept." He said the offer was just a rearrangement of "the same old package offered by the industry on Oct. 17."

The new offer was submitted to the union Nov. 15 during secret negotiations between both sides. McDonald said the union's 33-member executive board turned it down the same day.

Had the proposal been accepted, said Cooper, it would have meant a 30-cent-an-hour package over a three year period. He added that the new offer also tempered industry demands for more say over working conditions.

Cites 24-Cent Gain

McDonald disagreed, claiming that the proposal would mean a gain of only 24 cents an hour over the three year period.

"The only changes in the work rules issue are a stay of sentence in the same old attempt to deprive steelworkers of hard won gains and protections," McDonald declared.

"The offer is almost the same proposition which the companies had made in October and which was rejected by the full wage policy committee as recently as Nov. 12th," he added.

Industry estimated that the new proposal provided an increase of 6-10 of a cent an hour over the 29.4 cent hourly package offered by the industry on Oct. 17 in another three-year proposal.

Council, Chamber Officials Study Parking Lot Plan

City Council and Chamber of Commerce officials met Thursday night for several hours to hear a preliminary survey report on the question of additional off-street parking in Salem.

On the basis of the rough survey, the plan sounds "pretty good," Fred "Ike" Koenreich, chairman of Council's powerful finance committee, said today.

Another meeting on the proposed off-street parking plan will be scheduled soon. This meeting will be attended by representatives of Squires, Saunders & Demsey of Cleveland, the city's financial adviser, and officials of the McDonald Co., a bond-selling firm which has indicated interest in buying some mortgage revenue bonds on the parking lot program if the city goes ahead with the idea.

"It's a question of financing," Koenreich said in explaining the reason for the next meeting.

Engineering Associates of Wooster, the firm that handled a similar project in Ashland, is doing the survey.

Democratic Convention Under Way

Presidential Backers Maneuver for Support

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Supporters for 1960 presidential candidates are working overtime trying to line up support for their men at the convention of the Young Democratic Clubs of America here.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, Ohio's top Democrat, told a news conference Thursday that backers of at least eight potential candidates for the nomination had solicited his aid.

DiSalle said he "promised nothing" to the partisans who approached him. Asked the names of the eight candidates, the governor replied that they are the ones generally being discussed.

All of them, he said, were "seasoned candidates" and each "could be a good president."

The 1,500 delegates, about a third of whom probably will be delegates at the party's nominating convention in Los Angeles next July, get a chance to watch three possible candidates today as convention speakers.

They are Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Govs. Robert Meyer of New Jersey and G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

DiSalle gave the keynote address opening the 11th biennial convention. He warned that the partisans of the presidential hopefuls should not criticize opponents during the primary campaigns by using "words that will fit in the Republicans' mouths next fall."

"Point to your strength in the primary campaigns, not to your opponents' weaknesses," the governor advised.

DiSalle said some of the criticisms advocates have been leveling against others were "petty" and he added:

"They say one has a bad back, another has had a heart attack, one is too young, another is too old, one too liberal, another too conservative."

Committee work was completed on a strong, liberal labor plank for presentation to the convention today.

The convention winds up Saturday with a banquet at which former President Harry S. Truman will speak.

National Catholic Shrine Dedicated

WASHINGTON (AP) — A national shrine for the 36 million U.S. Roman Catholics is being dedicated here today with impressive ceremonies.

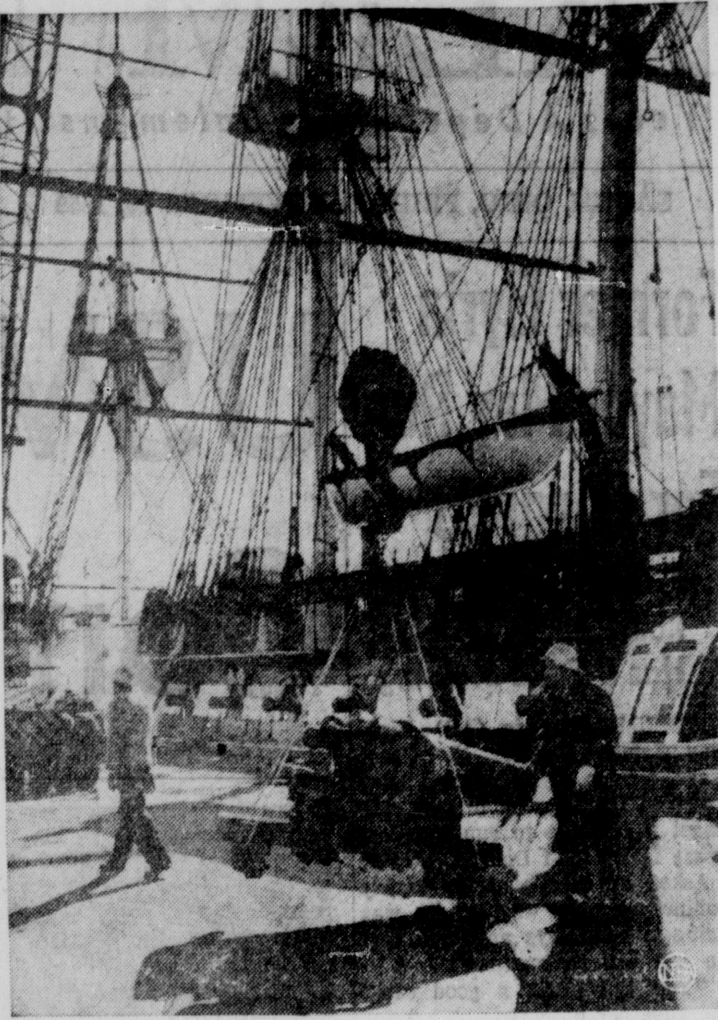

Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York was scheduled to dedicate the edifice and celebrate a solemn pontifical mass.

More than 200 members of the Catholic hierarchy, including cardinals, archbishops and bishops, are taking part in the dedication ceremonies which will last three days.

Vast and gleaming, the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception is the largest Catholic church in the United States and the seventh largest in the world. St. John the Divine, an Episcopal church in New York City, is the nation's largest church.

With its sheath of pale limestone and its lofty, blue-and-yellow tiled dome, the shrine dominates the northeast section of Washington. It is on the campus of Catholic University, three miles north of the Capitol.

The shrine is a blend of the Byzantine and Romanesque styles. From the ground to the top of its gold-tipped bell tower is 329 feet. The wall behind the altar is 459 feet from the entrance across 50,000 square feet of marble floor. Pews for 3,000 fill little more than half the huge interior, the rest being taken up with the sanctuary and altar.

POSTPONED SAIL FOR 'IRONSIDES' — The famed USS Constitution was scheduled to go to sea again but strong winds prevented the maneuver. The wooden fighting ship was to be pushed into Boston harbor so that she could be turned around in her berth, an operation designed to prevent warping. Dandruff 'Cures' Cause Misconceptions

Like all other skin areas, the scalp is constantly shedding its outer layers. This process is normal and continuous and usually attracts no particular attention.

When the scalp sheds in somewhat larger than average flakes, the condition has been called dandruff.

When attention is drawn to the flakes of dandruff in the hair or on the collar, the condition becomes a disease not of the scalp but of the mind of the self-conscious person afflicted.

Dr. H. T. Hyman

DANDRUFF ITSELF is NOT a scalp affliction. It is NOT due to infection with any specific bug. It is NOT an indication of bad hygiene.

Indeed it is often made worse by daily hair washing with medicated soaps.

Despite cunningly contrived sales lures that aim to cajole the consumer into purchase of a "dandruff cure," you can have an awful lot of dandruff without becoming bald.

When the hair follicles are damaged but capable of recovery, hair will grow whether the tonic is rubbed on the scalp or not.

If there were a true "hair tonic," there would be no bald barbers or skin specialists. Television personalities wouldn't have to wear toupees.

As matters now stand, those with naked scalps might better look before they rub.

HERE'S HOW to make scaling of the scalp less noticeable: Wash the hair no more than twice weekly.

Bonds and Your Investment Plans

It's Your Pocketbook

By FAYE HENLE

The stock markets are noting the stiffest competition they've seen in many a year. It comes from the bond market, and the experts say that as more of you learn your way about the bond market, this competition will stiffen.

If you are not in the big league, meaning you haven't got thousands to invest, what is available to you?

There are the U.S. government savings bonds, series E and H. You can buy E bonds in denominations ranging from $25 up to $10,000 and H bonds from $500 to $10,000.

Two things have recently happened to these bonds to make them more attractive:

1. The rate of interest the government will pay has been upped by one-half per cent.
2. The period of maturity (meaning the date when these bonds come due) has been shortened for E bonds.

THE SHORTER MATURITY applies only to bonds bought after May 31 of this year, but, the higher interest rate applies even on old bonds. If you own H bonds, after holding them a year and a half, they will return you 4 per cent and more to maturity.

All E bonds have now been granted a 10-year extension privilege, meaning they will keep on drawing interest during that time. The earliest E bonds already had a 10-year extension and now have been granted an additional 10 years, in effect making them 30-year bonds.

The Treasury now also has the authority to extend H bonds.

Can you gain by switching your U. S. government bond holdings? The answer is generally no.

If you cash E bonds you'll have to pay the income tax on accumulated interest. If you keep the bonds, the money stays in your investment, working for you. If you hold these bonds until they mature, the experts hint that the interest may be taxable at a lower rate.

There is no tax advantage to switching out of H bonds, as presumably the tax has already been paid yearly.

WATCH FOR NEWS telling that your income tax may be deferred by swapping E bonds for H bonds. A federal law now gives the Treasury authority to allow investors to defer capital gains by exchanging old government bonds for new issues. Thus far, however, the Treasury has not acted on this authority.

Series E and H are not the only U. S. government issues.

However, the other government bonds as well as issues of such government agencies as the Federal National Mortgage Assn., the Federal Home Loan Bank and others, and the tax-exempt issues offered by cities, states, municipalities, by bridge, highway, sewer and school authorities, come only in larger denominations. They generally are issued as $1,000 bonds.

Today on many of these tax-exempts you can earn as much as 5 per cent. All of these bonds generally trade in "round lots" of 10 bonds.

Also popular currently are bonds issued by private companies—called corporate bonds—and by utilities. Study the market and you'll find that some of these have been issued in $100 denominations. You may find some selling at prices to return you 6 per cent or more on the dollars you invest. However, as with stocks, practice that old slogan: "Investigate Before You Invest." Act only on the soundest advice.

Candidates For the Black List

The longer a politician thinks about the list of congressmen marked for the kill by the Teamsters Union because they do not meet James R. Hoffa's specifications, the more possibilities of usefulness he can see.

In addition to the 54 Republicans and 2 Democrats on the original list, there may be that many more who will be begging for a place on an amended list before election day in 1960.

Though Teamsters money could be the make-or-break factor in many contests for the House of Representatives next year—and no candidate ever knowingly kicks away money—it also could be true next year that a Teamsters' endorsement could be too high a price to pay for financial aid.

There might even come a time in the near future when politicians generally would do what many politicians have learned to do in their own ballistics—pledge with their union friends to show their friendship at the polls and lay off public endorsements.

The matter is sensitive and especially so to politicians, but there is a likelihood that being a friend to union labor will not qualify a candidate for public trust from now on, unless he specifies what kind of union labor he is befriending.

Some kinds of union labor now signify nothing but the men who for better or worse demonstrated that some spokesman do not speak for Americans who work but only for the vested interest they have developed in unionism. They are like the British Laborites who professed to be thinking about working men and women but in actuality were thinking about the political movement that had become the Labor politicians' sole means of support.

President Hoffa of the Teamsters Union is not like President Reuther of the Auto Workers, who is avowedly devoted to politics. Hoffa understands why politics is important, but he, himself, has shown on interest in a political career. But all union executives these days must know their way around in political tactics.

Perhaps they will discover what other people in the United States are discovering. Unionism is not in the ascendancy of its popularity. A black list of candidates marked for the kill by unions easily could become a list of candidates most likely to be elected.

Twisting the Dove's Tail

Communist China has performed a service of sorts in its boundary dispute with India. After months of barbed exchanges between the two nations over which is the aggressor in the quarrel, Peiping has made a tacit confession of guilt.

It has proposed that the issue be settled by the creation of a 25-mile no man's land in the mountainous territory between them.

This is a familiar gimmick in the recent history of aggression. The Communists have developed it into a skillful maneuver with a high degree of success. The Indian border fight provides an excellent example of how.

The Reds first stirred up the trouble by moving across the admittedly vague border and setting up camp, killing a few Indian policemen along the way. Since the territory involved can scarcely be said to have any great residential, resource or strategic value, the motive was probably to distract world attention from the Red massacre in Tibet or the Red economic failure at home or both.

Playing upon the reticence of neutralist Nehru to reply with harsh and hasty action, the Chinese Reds proceeded to fan the flames of dissension with characteristic finesse.

Then, when things got hot enough to force the Indian leader to take a tough tone in his formal protests to Peiping, the peace pipe was offered in the form of a "buffer zone."

Under the proposal, India and Red China would pull their forces back 12½ miles on their respective sides of the boundary, leaving a 25-mile no man's land between. But it would not be empty. The Reds suggest that civil administrators and unarmed policemen remain.

This is simply another way of asking India to move her border back 12½ miles and let the Reds take over. But it has the sly advantage of appearing to be a peace move. And, because the mountain territory is of little value to India except for the principle involved, the buffer zone plan might be tempting enough to lure peace-loving Nehru into the trap.

If it is accepted, it will make the Communists appear to be taking the offensive for peace instead of revealing them as simply being offensive.

Let's Not Forget Those Singers

The great come-clean revival rolls on. Everybody wants to point the finger of scorn at everybody else.

When all the little people who lived high on the quiz hog for a spell have been pushed back into oblivion, some of them tarred and feathered for life, there presumably will be peace.

The cold breath of dishonesty will be felt no longer on the hot necks of the competitors in the rat race for survival, Madison Ave. style.

Everything will be what it purports to be. Or will it?

There are two things we wonder about especially—politicians and those young men who make odd noises when they sing. Will they be forced to be what they purport to be; namely, citizens worthy of public trust as vocalists?

There will be a national election next year. Television will be packed with citizens seeking political preferment for themselves and others. They will be presented to the great unseen audience in as favorable a light as possible.

What we want to know this time is whether they are reading the speech from a Teleprompter, or whether they know what they want to say. We want to know how they look without makeup. We want to know how many enthusiasts turned out in the flesh to see them—whether the auditorium was packed, or whether it was full of vacant seats.

As for the young men who purport to be vocalists, they are a mystery. There are several potential explanations of their success, including the orthodox explanation that teenagers like them so well they cannot be barred from success.

There is a catch in this orthodox success-story line, though, because teenagers only can like what they have a chance to hear. America wants to know how it has come about that so many young men who tend to sound alike to ears trained on vocalists who do not sound that way got their chance to be heard in the first place.

It would seem that this might be connected in some way with tieups between people who have reputations to make and people who can make or break reputations. There may be a fruitful field here for investigation as the great come-clean revival rolls on. It's just like an old-fashioned barbershop.

Homes will one day have electronics devices like scales, to detect diseases in earliest stages, says David Sarnoff. He predicts an instrument board will flash the state of health, after taking the blood pressure, the heart-beat, etc., and ring a bell if you need a doctor.

Gangway for the "sickorwellograph," artistically designed and in a choice of colors. You'll want one that reflects the mood of the room. (It had better be built so strongly the kids can't monkey with it just to scare the hides off ma and pa.)

But what about hypochondriacs? They always insist they are sick. Any machine that disputes them will be sent back.

What happens when a machine gets out of order and says, "See your doctor when it should register, 'You're in the pink.' Will the repair bills make a fellow sicker?

We think Mr. Sarnoff's prophesy may come true and we hope our "sickorwellograph" has fins, racy lines and slots to dispense pills. When the device flashes, "You're carbonized," we hope it will not be too emphatic.

If it finds us in the pink it should spring an American flag, ring chimes and light up all over.

Millions of "sickorwellographs" in homes would send millions of patients to doctor's office already so overcrowded that doctors are in bad shape from stress and strain.

Doctors under such conditions will need the machine more than the patients will.

Annual Harvest Festival

FDR and Astor's Yacht

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The taste and morals of American periodical journalism have gone on a sharp downward trend. The Saturday Evening Post, Look and other slicks of like renown have published studies, amounting, altogether, to eulogies, of Mickey Cohen, George Raft, Drew Pearson, Gypsy Rose Lee, Harry S. Truman and, now, Jimmy Roosevelt, whose mother's inexhaustible flow of memories is mined of new bonanzas every second or third year with little consistency and serene indifference to the known truth.

This must be the taste and moral standard of the American people to whom other nations look with resignation for a code of ideals to rebuke the Kremlin.

Otherwise, why would the Americans buy it?

THE AIGLON of the Roosevelt dynasty, a bald eagle now, has compiled a treasury of anecdotes which I am forced to commend to the serious student of the perfidy which transposed virtue and vice.

Jimmy's discussion of the happy days which Papa spent aboard Vincent Astor's private ocean liner, Nourmahal, early in the reign, illuminates a politico-social phase of the regime which was overlooked in the hurry and innocence of the world in those times.

It may be remembered that Roosevelt cruised aboard this fabulous extravagance in two gaudy affronts to the necessity and fears of the common man who became his humble protégé in 1932. Hitler had the same honest contempt for self-denial and humility.

Nourmahal was built to put J. F. Morgan in his place, Morgan said any man who had to inquire what it cost to run a yacht couldn't afford it.

Vincent Astor certainly could. But in Roosevelt's time, taxes became a serious problem and Astor dissociated himself from the economic royalists to propitiate his baronial neighbor in Dutchess County. He gave $35,000 to the Democratic campaign fund and at least moved his lips in the long refrain of "Happy Days Are Here Again," Roosevelt's equivalent of the wobbles "Pie in the Sky."

ASTOR CAME of a long line of rakes and bounders. He and Roosevelt shared a blood stream and a subornal heredity. When, in 1933, the constant moocher was ready to relax from the strain that destiny had imposed he tied loose on a lolling sousie-party on the Nourmahal off Miami. The charter cost would have been a quarter-million each time. But Astor piped him aboard and quietly withdrew his own presence.

Nourmahal was 264 feet long. She could cruise 20,000 miles. She had a log fireplace in her library. She had a crew of 42. Wages, insurance, food, uniforms, gear and soap cost $125,000 a year, tied up. The additional cost of fuel, food and booze for a passenger list of deserving Democrats would be trivial by comparison, although to millionaires no cost is trivial. That scrupulousness makes millionaires.

In a letter to me in 1955, Astor denied that taxes had commingled with admiration in his motives when he offered Roosevelt his liner not once but twice. He gave a thin-lipped answer when I asked whether er Roosevelt or the government paid rent or any part of the crew's wages for this exclusive use of one of the most expensive luxuries in the world.

AFTER ALL, Ham Fish, as the local congressman, had charged that the Treasury paid Roosevelt's mother for the use of her home as a "summer White House" and the general accounting office had refused to come clean. The suspicion becomes more reasonable as the Roosevelts blab their family secrets always at a price.

Astor retorted that, of course, a gentleman did not charge his guests. I inquired further how he might know that. I got only supercilious silence for my answer, and I was not exactly crushed when two years ago a mutual friend, bidden to Astor's place at Phoenix, naively asked him to invite Mr. Pegler, and he wouldn't.

"I am glad to tell you," Astor wrote in his earlier letter, "that of course no compensation was received. Mr. Roosevelt's half-brother was my uncle and from my earliest boyhood I regarded him as a close and loyal friend. (There were other blood ties through the line of Warren Delano, the Hong Kong opium smuggler). He was treated the same as any other guest. Naturally, I was proud to fly the standard of the commander in chief."

JIMMY WROTE THAT Roosevelt swarmed aboard with a whole crew of scoundrels and ran the ship to his own whim. The guest ran up his own flag and became master. Astor had reason to hope that the Internal Revenue would take it easy and Roosevelt had the power to do the handsome thing in return.

In 1930, Astor offered the ship to Al Smith, who turned him down cold. The iron boat to Coney Island and the night boat to Albany were his class.

In 1935, Astor tried Roosevelt with another invitation. Roosevelt said the trip would not justify the cost of putting Nourmahal in commission. Astor said she was "always in commission." Roosevelt topped that. He said then "we will have to raise the taxes of the rich."

Astor turned his neighbor's picture toward the wall. They never spoke again as they passed by.

Sin of Omission

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Problem In Both New York and Mississippi

"Failure to prosecute" has, in effect, become a moral, if not a legal, defect in Mississippi, according to Attorney General Rogers. But will the sins of omission of New York State also be exposed to the same klieg light of publicity? An who is now to monitor the cases dropped by the Department of Justice?

Possibly it was David Lawrence thought it would be good politics nationally to point publicly to the failure of a county grand jury in Mississippi to render indictments in the lynching of an accused rapist. The Federal Bureau of Investigation, according to Mr. Rogers, was ordered into the case and spent about $80,000 in the investigation, though it was later decided no federal law was involved.

Should federal money, therefore, also be spent to investigate the strange behavior of the New York State authorities in the TV scandals? It is openly admitted scores of persons lied before the grand jury more than a year ago in New York County, but only one person has been indicted for perjury.

"I believe in states' rights," says the attorney general, "but I also believe in state responsibility."

Mr. Rogers called a special news conference last Tuesday to say it was clear to him that "if the states are going to disregard responsibilities to the extent of not even calling witnesses" in such a case as the Mississippi lynching, "then the federal government must consider something else."

THERE ARE many things the federal government will have to start considering if this view of state responsibility is maintained. One thing needed is a study of what causes lynchings and the extent to which technicalities in the law have been used to permit persons accused of crimes to escape punishment.

In the Mississippi case, feeling ran high in February 1959 when a 23-year-old Negro, Mack Charles Parker, was arrested for raping a pregnant white woman in the presence of her four-year-old daughter, but there were no incidents while he was being held for the grand jury, which indicted him, or there until just before his trial was to begin in April 1959.

At about the same time, unrest rose throughout the state about another case, in which Robert Lee Goldsby, a Negro given the death sentence in 1955 for murdering a white woman, again had had his execution stayed and been granted a new trial by the federal courts. The reason was that no Negroes had been empaneled on the jury which convicted him.

The attorney for Parker, the accused rapist, announced he would seek the same relief for his client—one which the Supreme Court has often granted in recent years.

Gov. Coleman of Mississippi, who has repeatedly condemned lynching, has said it was this possibility—that the accused Negro might go free on a technicality—which probably precipitated the lynching.

Technicalities often interfere with effective prosecution. For instance, residents of the national capital reading last Wednesday on the front pages all about Mr. Rogers' interest in the Mississippi lynching case, while on another page an item revealed a federal judge had blocked the use of certain evidence against a suspected Negro rapist in the District of Columbia.

THE EPISODE concerns a 33-year-old Negro woman who was forced into a garage, raped and robbed of her purse. Two police officers went to the home of the arrested suspect and asked his mother if they could search the house for the woman's purse. They said she gave her consent, and they found the billfold belonging to the raped woman.

Federal Judge Youngdahl says this evidence cannot be used in court. He says higher courts have ruled that such consent must be "freely and intelligently given," and said the mother admitted the officers because she thought she had a duty to do so. The judge added:

"It is difficult to believe that this particular woman understood the significance of what the officers told her; it is quite implausible to believe she was aware a search warrant was a prerequisite to a valid search."

This is the kind of technical argument often invoked as a means of ruling out important evidence in criminal cases. Another species of technicality supported by decision of the Supreme Court rules out any confession made by an arrested suspect when there has been an "unnecessary delay" in arraigning him before a magistrate. How long a time can elapse before an arraignment must be made has never been determined by the Supreme Court, however.

ATTORNEY GENERAL Rogers is to be commended for opening up the whole subject of why state grand juries or state prosecutors do not always prosecute.

Incidentally, he might look into the shortcomings of law-enforcement agencies in various cities and towns in those states where steel plants are located and where supervisory personnel of the companies were in recent months forcibly prevented or threatened with bodily harm when they tried to enter their offices during the steel strike.

From Our Readers

Commentary

So many times public officials are unduly criticised for things for which they are the victims of circumstances. Our present safety director, Joseph Fester, must be voted a round of thanks on getting the boys at the fire station to put their heads together and do what is right and fair for the taxpayers of Salem.

I'd also like to point out in this letter that we must be on the alert to dispel two-bit hoodlums. The recent open traffic in football parlays shows that there is something amiss. All fellow chumps should read this week's Saturday Evening Post's account titled "A Primer for Chumps" by Philip G. Fox.

Football pools are the worst swindles of all. The syndicates have an edge ranging from 53 to 93 per cent.

I have no strong feelings about the morality of gambling, but I am opposed to organized betting, whether it is run by the state or by bookies for two reasons:

(a) I dislike seeing anyone take advantage of chumps. (b) Most of the "take" on the $20 billion wagered annually winds up in the hands of racketeers who use the illicit income to corrupt police and public officials, and I can't help reflecting that this $20 billion is more than the United States will spend on education in 1959.

So you players - or brother chumps, I should say - beware of any house game of any kind. If you read the article, "A Primer for Chumps," it may save you many, many dollars. Don't be a sucker for the two-bit hoodlums.

Matter of Fact

With winter approaching, hibernating animals like the bear and ground squirrel get ready for a winter nap. Man, fascinated by hibernators, wonders if hibernation would extend his own life. But man has never been able to sleep the winter through. In hibernation, an animal's body temperature cools almost to the temperature of the outside air. He lives on the weight his body gained in summer. The ground squirrel, in hibernation, will lose up to 80 per cent of his weight. And his heartbeat, 300 beats a minute when awake, slows to an irregular 7 to 10 beats a minute.

So They Say

A pedestrian who has observed all the rules of the highway has the right to stop traffic until he passes by in safety even as Moses held the Red Sea. — Justice Michael A. Musmanno in Pennsylvania Supreme Court decision.

Apparently the whole costly business has been erected for the sole joy of the bird watchers and the window washers.

—Architect Douglas Haskell, criticizing the new Senate Office Building in Washington.

Once a public execution was considered entertainment. Bullfighting still is. Look at the violence on television, the crime plays and even the boxing and phony wrestling. So what is the great threat to society of a girl's taking of some clothes to music — Striptaser Libby Jones, defending her profession.

Looking Backward

Mount Union Accepts New Testing Plan

ALLIANCE — Mount Union College will join the roster of Ohio colleges and universities using the American College Testing program for prospective students, Dr. Carl C. Bracy, president of the college, announced today.

The new testing program will become effective with the fall semester of 1960 for Mount Union College, all Ohio state universities and many of the state's private colleges and universities.

The decision to accept the American College Testing program, currently in use in 17 other states centered in the midwestern area, came after several weeks of study by the Mount Union College faculty.

"It is hoped that participation in this nationally accepted program will enable Mount Union to better serve the prospective student through a more complete counseling program and estimation of the student's academic career," Dr. Bracy said.

The admission of students and awarding of scholarships will very likely be based on the results of the testing program. College Entrance Examination Board scores will be accepted from students living in areas which the American Testing program does not serve. This policy would eliminate Mount Union's present use of special examinations for scholarships and proficiency tests for the entering class.

The American College Testing program, which originated at the State University of Iowa, is used to provide comparable intellectual data on all high school seniors seeking admission to college, regardless of where they live or attend school.

Examinations are given in various centers throughout the United States, and the record of each student taking the examination will be mailed to Mount Union eight weeks later. Scores will also be made available to high school counselors in order that additional counseling of students may be done prior to graduation from high school.

The examination used for this program assesses general intellectual capacity in English, mathematics, social studies and natural sciences. The total score should yield an indication of a student's general academic ability.

AWARDED $200 BY JURY

LISBON — A Common Pleas court jury Thursday awarded $200 to an East Liverpool man who filed a suit for injuries sustained by his wife as a result of an accident in East Liverpool, Nov. 24, 1958.

Wesley J. Wilson was awarded this sum by a jury which deliberated three hours. He had asked for $5,000 from Climmie Robinson and Nick Manfredi of East Liverpool. Wilson claims his wife's car was struck from behind by Manfredi's auto which had been struck by the Robinson car.

Mrs. Wilson last May was awarded $8,200 from Robinson and absolved Manfredi of any liability.

EARLY WINTER COMES TO IOWA — John Schow, farmer near Palmer, Iowa, finds the going rough with midwinter conditions prevailing in mid-November. With temperature an unofficial 15 degrees, Schow begins his early morning chores, which include stoking a stock tank heater to keep the water from freezing.

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

Those Chicago untouchables are just not taking the new anti-racketeering law as a personal insult. They're taking it for a profit.

A neat multi-million dollar profit — to come out of commissions in writing surety bonds for thousands of Jim Hoffa's Teamsters officials. Under the new law, "Every agent, officer, shop steward or other representative or employee of any labor organization . . . who handles funds or other properties thereof shall be bonded for the faithful discharge of his duties."

These bonds can run as high as half a million dollars. Commissions on placing this business eventually will run into the hundreds of millions of dollars. Here is the story of how the Chicago crowd set up an agency to issue those bonds:

The law was passed on Sept. 14. On Sept. 21, Jim Hoffa dispatched a letter to all his 900 locals.

He asked his people to write to him by Oct. 2. He wanted to know what bonding would be required.

On Oct. 5 the Teamsters secretary - treasurer, Johnny English, wrote to all locals. Part of his letter said:

"After negotiating with at least four national companies, the general executive board has seen fit to recommend to the officers, agents, stewards and employees of the Teamsters a company which can provide suitable coverage. This company is the Summit Fidelity and Surety Co., of Akron . . ."

WE ARE NOT for the moment concerned with the Akron central office. I now refer you to what happened in Chicago early in October — and credit for this probe should go to the fea unsung investigators now locking the McClellan Committee into history.

Sometime in the first 10 days of October something called the Illinois Agency of the Summit Fidelity and Surety Co., came into being. Now note this timetable.

On Oct. 7 the Illinois Agency of Summit applied for a telephone. The address was Suite 1300 at 134 North LaSalle St. That is the office of a law firm of Herbert Lissner. He has been an associate of Jimmie Hoffa's good friend, insurance broker Alan Dorfman, who handled a multi-million dollar insurance business for the Teamsters.

On Oct. 8 the Illinois Agency of Summit opened a bank account.

Probers checking the new company noted that it consisted of a desk and a telephone in Suite 1300.

On Oct. 9 the president of the Illinois Agency dispatched a letter to all Teamsters locals. That letter said in part: "Recently the general executive board of your international union recommended this company to provide surety bond coverage for its affiliates. I am sure that after reading the letter which was sent to you by English . . . you became somewhat acquainted with the necessity of compliance . . ."

APPLICATIONS for bonding were enclosed by the president. And who is the president? He is, according to the federal records, Irwin S. Weiner. He runs the American Bail Bond Co. in Chicago. He also is mighty active in and has a big chunk of three meat shortening plants. And who are among the salesmen and staff of these three companies selling meat by products?

The toughest collection of Chicago's untouchables, that's who. Among Weiner's associates is Sam Battaglia. He has been arrested at least 23 times — mostly for armed robbery.

This salesman has eight convictions and three jail terms, but he apparently is a gracious host. A frequent visitor to his place is Tony Accardo, successor to Al Capone.

Another salesman is Marshall Caifano. He is one of the West Side's "Young Bloods." He has at least 18 arrests as a stick-up man, bank robber, alcohol peddler, etc., and there are some real tough etceteras. Caifano is also a close associate and traveling companion of Tony A.

There are others. They do not lose by comparison.

WHAT'S FASCINATING here is that Weiner and the Illinois Agency of Summit got the Teamsters mailing lists. They knew of the national headquarters' letters. They are already taking union bonding business, although the other companies in this field, organized in the American Surety Assn. have not yet set rates, but are still discussing details with the U.S. Labor Department.

Now the federals are all over the story. But give credit to crusading Bob Kennedy. And remember that committees come and go, but with the boys it's always business as usual.

New Labeling Plan Helps to Ease Cranberry Scare

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new labeling plan helped today to ease the cranberry scare.

The government Thursday assured housewives they didn't have to worry about including cranberries in their Thanksgiving menus — if the berries they buy are labeled as being safe.

Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming told berry shoppers to look for one of these labels: 1. "Examined and passed by the Food and Drug Administration of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare."

2. "Certified safe under the plan approved by the U.S. government for cranberries." This statement must be signed by the packer distributor who has the testing done in line with government procedures, Flemming said.

Misuse of the labels will be regarded as a crime, the secretary added. Cranberry industry spokesmen assured housewives there will be plenty of certified berries for the holidays.

The cranberry scare developed last week when Flemming told a news conference that traces of a weed killer had been found on some berries grown in the Pacific Northwest. He said the weed killer, Aminotriazole, had produced cancer when fed to laboratory test rats.

DiSalle Raps Ohio Care of Retarded, Delinquent Youth

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Of the next million children born in Ohio, more than 100,000 will be the concern of organized society, Gov. Michael V. DiSalle said Thursday. DiSalle, addressing the Governor's Conference on Children and Youth, said Ohio facilities for mentally retarded and mentally ill children are "not what they ought to be." And he called Ohio's program for correction of delinquent juveniles "chaotic."

The next million children will include 30,000 who are mentally retarded, 15,000 mentally ill and 15,000 with corrective problems while others will be blind, dependent, crippled or emotionally disturbed, he continued.

DiSalle said that over 50 per cent of the inmates of London Prison Farm had served time at the Mansfield Reformatory or the Boys Industrial School at Lancaster.

The juvenile correction program seems to be an advanced course in crime, he commented.

Short-range planning and long-range knowledge are needed in Ohio, the governor said.

A report released at the conference, on the Ohio State University campus, accused Ohio of not doing all it could to prepare its youth for happy, successful adult lives.

The report will form the basis for participation of an Ohio committee in the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

When Mrs. J. gave me the list of family and friends to be invited to the dinner, I almost went through the floor. I kept our list down to family and 26 close friends. Her list was 210.

I told her we couldn't have such a crowd. She replied, "Don't be a fool, Marie. We've given beautiful gifts for 25 years, now it's our turn to collect."

I told Mrs. J. she could invite anyone she wished to the church but she said, "They won't send a nice gift unless they're invited to the dinner."

My husband is shocked. I don't know what to do. We just can't afford what she has in mind. — MOTHER OF THE BRIDE.

Dear Mother: Tell Mrs. J. she will have to get even with her friends another way. Since you are paying for the wedding it's up to you to decide how much to spend.

It's not unheard of for the groom's parents to give a big dinner the night before the wedding. If Mrs. J. wishes to do this tell her you have no objections.

G' for Goon

Dear Ann: You won't print this because it doesn't fit in with your antiquated morals, but here goes anyway:

After 10 years of marriage and four children, I discovered I was in a rut — romantically speaking. All the excitement and fun was gone. I felt like an old man at 40. So, I met a young girl with lots of zip. She made me feel young again.

I have too much honor to sneak around behind my wife's back, so I told her. All she said was, "We're married for life so forget about a divorce. I hope you come back to your senses before you ruin your life."

Well, I saw this girl about three times a week for two months. Then I realized I belonged at home. Never once did my wife nag me. When I told her I was "home to stay" she said, "Fine. It's about time."

I'll never step out again. My wife handled the situation just right. I got the running around out of my system and everyone is happy. If more women were smart like my wife there would be fewer divorces. — HOME TO STAY.

Dear Home: So what do you want from me — a good conduct medal? Just because your wife didn't have herself measured for a straitjacket doesn't mean she wasn't deeply affected by your disgraceful behavior.

You're lucky to have a wife with strength to "stand by" while you got bored with your new plaything. An orchid to her—and a bouquet of skunk cabbage to you, sir!

Too Polite Loser

Dear Ann: Last Sunday three couples decided on the spur of the moment to go to a rather nice place for dinner. One of the fellows wasn't wearing a necktie so my husband lent him one of his best ties.

During the evening a live cigarette ash fell on the tie and burned a hole in it. My husband wanted to be polite. He said, "It was an old tie, forget it." The fellow laughed it off and so did his wife. I am burned up. What should be done? — BELLA.

Dear Bella: Nothing now. Your husband closed the door. The fellow who borrowed the tie should have the good sense to replace it in spite of your husband's remark but it would be awkward to suggest it now.

Real Pleasure

Dear Ann: The letter signed "Loose Ends" by the bored woman gave me a pain. Did you notice, in the long list of things she did to fight off boredom, that every activity was designed for self amusement?

I'm no angel but I learned long ago that real pleasure comes from doing something for someone else. Here's a good example:

My neighbor has a large family of boys and one small girl who was somewhat neglected. It touched my heart one day to see her dressing and undressing her doll in its one and only dress. So I got busy and made her doll a wardrobe. The child was thrilled and we became good friends. Now we take long walks together and I'm teaching her the names of flowers, plants and trees.

She has become acquainted with other little girls in the park and is learning to play nicely with them under my supervision.

Her mother tells me the girl's personality has blossomed since I took an interest in her. She says I have been a Godsend. Please pass this on to others who are bored trying to amuse themselves. —CONTENTED.

Widow With Hopes

Dear Ann: My blood pressure is really up there as a result of that letter from "Interested Family." So — they didn't want their socially prominent mother, age 52, to marry a garage mechanic because it might injure her social standing, eh?

Well, I am a widow, 54, who has

"social standing," too, whatever that means. I also own a lovely home, a car and I have the means to travel, entertain and do as I please. My children are through college, married and on their own.

I live alone and it's an empty, unsatisfying life. Please tell "Interested Family" to let Mother do as she wishes. And while you're at it, ask them if that garage mechanic has a friend. — INTERESTED WIDOW.

Dear Interested Widow: You sound like a living doll and I wish I could pluck a man out of my reading audience, just for you. I'm sure there are many who would qualify, but this isn't that kind of column.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

School Bus Safety Measures Recommended At Conference

Additional safety measures for school buses were recommended for consideration by the state department of education and the state department of highway safety at a meeting of school officials, bus drivers and Ruritan club representatives Thursday night at the United Local School.

Among the proposals were:

Use of a visor over signal lights on buses, blinker lights with a distinct color combination for school buses only, a short-time flare to be dropped automatically or mechanically preceding the bus stop on foggy mornings, more intensive training for children on bus and road safety;

More thorough training for the school bus drivers including a required course, use of windshield washers on buses, elimination of as many bus stops as feasible, and use of Eastern Standard Time for all schools.

Last night's meeting was sponsored by a committee representing the Ruritan clubs of Columbiana, Mahoning, Stark and Carroll counties.

Forty school officials, bus drivers and Ruritan club representatives attended the meeting and participated in the discussion.

The proposals will be submitted to the two state departments.

James W. Boyd of East Liverpool, committee chairman, presided.

Various phases of the question were presented by J. Howard Withers, Petersburg bus driver; James L. McBride, Columbiana County school superintendent; Patrolman M. R. Darrah of Ohio State Patrol; E. F. Coleman of Salem, Mahoning County Schools; J. A. Marquis, United Local bus driver; Kenneth Snodgrass of Alliance, a representative; and George VanHorne, administrative head of Beaver Local Schools.

Gov. Meyner Calls Ike 'Passive Custodian'

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey today described President Eisenhower as "a passive custodian in the White House who takes action only when problems reach crisis proportions."

Meyner, in a speech prepared for delivery to the National Young Democratic Convention, again cited the recent television probe as an example of what he called Republican misadministration of such agencies as the Federal Communications Commission.

He blamed the television rigging scandal on the Eisenhower administration in a speech at Cambridge, Mass., Wednesday.

Today he asserted that "the pollution and perversion of television" occurred "while official Washington sat by dumb, stupid and indifferent."

The governor called Eisenhower's appointees to head the six major federal agencies "incredible."

"The bumbling, inept, myopic John C. Doerfer, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, who let TV come to a pretty pass in the TV quiz cases, is no accident. He fits the pattern of other big six appointments, which have been mediocre or worse," Meyner said.

The new officers will be installed Tuesday, Dec. 1, at 7:30 p.m. Ed Jenkins of Winona, grand Tyler of Ohio and past deputy grand master of Ohio, will be the installing officer.

They were returned from Lima by sheriff's deputies Monday.

Development In Harnessing H-Bomb Power Described

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A California physicist described today what he said is a major development in the search for a practical way to harness the power of the hydrogen bomb.

Dr. Marshall N. Rosenbluth, a theoretical physicist with the General Dynamics Corp. in San Diego, Calif., addressed the Texas symposium on nuclear fusion at the University of Texas opening. Rosenbluth said he and a colleague, Dr. William E. Drummond have theoretical findings showing that thermonuclear reactors—necessary for control of the energy-producing fusion process—may be built to specifications which will make them economically feasible.

The findings were said to contradict a 1958 report by two Soviet scientists, B. A. Trubnikov and V. S. Kudryatsev, who said reactors probably would have to be hundreds of feet in diameter to control the escape of energy by radiation.

Rosenbluth said he and Drummond found radiation is emitted only in planes almost perpendicular to the magnetic field. They said this means much less energy will be lost than was foreseen by the Russians.

Woman In Hospital After Collision

Mrs. Jennie Reed, 58, of 375 W. Main St., East Palestine, was admitted to Youngstown South Side Hospital Thursday for observation following a truck-car wreck on Rt. 90, one mile south of New Middletown, at 10:15 a.m.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Katherine M. Gillis, 49, of 472 E. Main St., East Palestine. Miss Gillis suffered a fractured right wrist and extensive multiple cuts of the face and abrasions of the legs and arms.

The accident occurred, Canfield post Highway Patrol said, when a coal truck, driven south on Rt. 90 by Orin J. Vance, 29, of Wampum, Pa., attempted to pass another coal truck.

The northbound Gillis auto was forced off the side of the road. The woman lost control of her auto and it came back onto the road, into the path of the truck, officers said. After the collision the truck shot off the road and overturned in a field. It caught fire.

New Middletown volunteer fire department sent two trucks to the blaze. The firemen also rushed the two women and the trucker to the hospital, officers said.

Vance received abrasions of the arms and forehead in the wreck which destroyed both vehicles.

TV Probe Report Won't Be Made Public

NEW YORK (AP) — A grand jury's report on its probe of rigged television quiz shows will not be made public.

General Sessions Judge Mitchell D. Schweitzer ruled Thursday that "where private citizens are involved, the function of the grand jury ends when it determines that no crime has been committed."

"The grand jury is not a vehicle for the public airing of the noncriminal immorality of private citizens."

The grand jury drew up its findings in a 12,000-word presentment last June. The panel heard 150 witnesses over a nine-month period.

A presentment differs from an indictment in that it summarizes a situation and often makes recommendations. But it carries no criminal charge.

SENT TO REFORMATORY

LISBON — Mrs. Shirley M. Clica, 25, of Youngstown, formerly of East Liverpool, was sentenced Thursday to the Ohio State Reformatory for Women at Marysville by Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin after she was found guilty of contributing to the neglect of her two minor children. The father of the children was given permanent custody by the court after the hearing.

LISBON — The Erie Railroad on Thursday afternoon pumped about 9,000 gallons of caustic soda from the chemical tank car in Beaver Creek to another tanker and then lifted the tank car which had toppled off the trestle into the creek on Nov. 11.

No reason for the derailment has been given by the railroad authorities. The tanker had been destined for the Hood Chemical Co. here when the mishap occurred.

Speculation Revived On De Soto Future

DETROIT (AP) — Discontinuance of the medium-priced Edsel revived speculation in the auto industry today that Chrysler Corp. may drop its slow-selling De Soto line.

Such rumors have been prevalent in industry circles for several years, but have been denied every time they have cropped up.

Observers noted, however, that Ford Motor Co. had previously denied it would stop producing Edsels. Thursday, the company said the line was being dropped because of poor sales.

Production figures show that only three autos are selling at a slower pace than the De Soto. These are Chrysler's Imperial, Ford's Lincoln and the Edsel, in that order.

De Soto production for the 1959 calendar year so far totals only slightly more than 30,000 units. The 1960 De Soto line is limited to six models.

Sales have slumped generally in the medium-priced field since the 1955 model year. Packard, Nash and Hudson, both in the medium price range, have been casualties of falling sales in recent years.

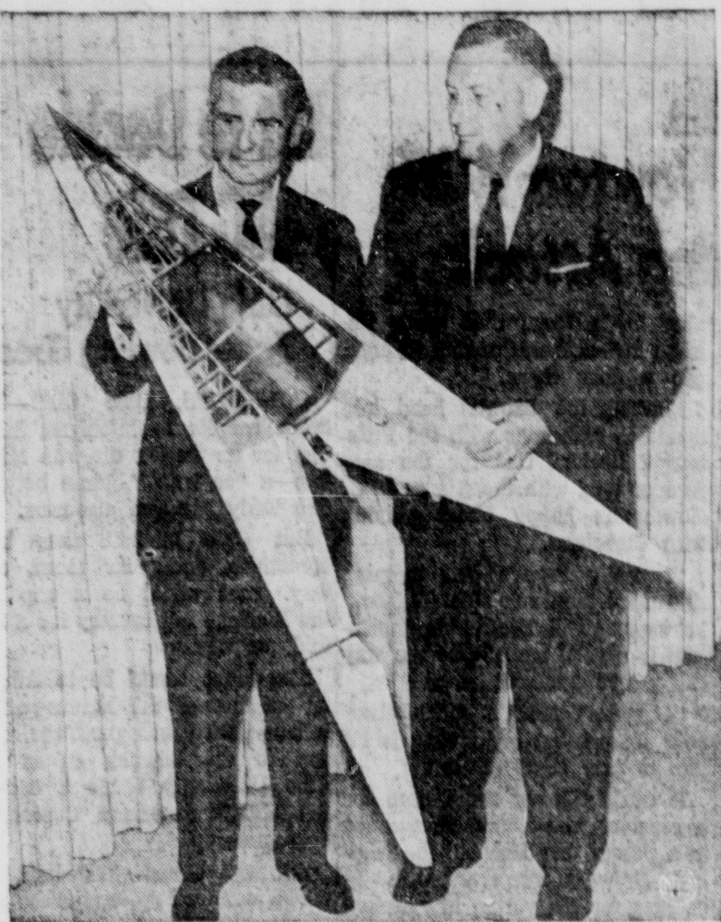

The Edsel was discontinued after only 28 months of production. Introduced at the end of August 1957, Ford enthusiastically predicted that 200,000 would be sold in the first year. Factory sales during the Edsel's existence fell slightly short of 110,000 cars.

The Space Commuters' Express—

How tomorrow's spaceman may get up in—and out of—the world is told in drawing, above left. It shows the operation of a space ferry which could be used as a shuttle between earth and a space station. With its arrow-shaped wings folded, the vehicle would be lifted into orbit by a three-stage rocket. (1) (2). There, 300 to 500 miles high, the pilot would open the huge 1,000-square-foot wings (3) and navigate to a rendezvous with the station (4). After transferring passengers and cargo, the ship would then be glided back to earth (5) to prepare for another trip. The "commuter express" would be able to carry four men and some 14,000 pounds of cargo into orbit. Right, Roy E. Wendahl, Hughes Aircraft Co. vice president, and Burt C. Monesmith, Lockheed Aircraft Corp. vice president, inspect a model of the ferry, which was jointly designed and proposed to the government by the two companies.

Brutal War Film

By REINHOLD ENSZ For Hal Boyle

BERLIN (AP)—A brutal German film about war is drawing sellout audiences in West Berlin and West Germany.

Most critics agree that the picture, which makes war look like insane nonsense, is one of the greatest ever made in Germany.

Called "Die Brucke" (The Bridge), it was turned out on a shoestring by Bernard Wicki, a Swiss actor turned director who works mainly in West Germany.

The film tells what happened to seven German schoolboys—aged 16—who were drafted into Hitler's army just before the hectic end of World War II.

The film shows how all of them, save one, died in defense of a small south German bridge that was worthless from a tactical viewpoint.

But this isn't what stuns the audience into silence, a silence that lasts till the crowd melts away on the street.

What hits the viewer is the manner in which the child-soldiers and their American attackers, die.

They do not die like heroes in a Wild West thriller, who spin around and drop dead without a fuss. Instead, the German kids and the American soldiers die screaming and blubbering, with terrible wounds.

Most West German critics hailed the film as a welcome break with what seems to have become a trend in West Germany. Many recent German films theoretically condemn war, but are actually an excuse to relive the glories of the time when the Germans goose-stepped over all of Europe.

In this film there is no glory and there are no heroes. There are just seven kids, six of whom were condemned to die by the fanatic determination that drove Hitler until his last days.

Michigan State to End Season Tonight Against Miami

Hopes for Trip To Rose Bowl

Two Key Contests Scheduled Saturday

By The Associated Press
Michigan State, tied with Northwestern and Wisconsin for the lead in the Big Ten ends its 1959 season tonight against Miami and then starts rooting for Illinois and Minnesota to win Saturday.

That is the only way the Spartans are going to get to the Rose Bowl as they and a score of other teams sweat out bowl nominations and conference titles Saturday in the showdown weekend along the college football front.

Illinois plays Northwestern and Minnesota meets Wisconsin as the Big Ten closes its campaign in search of a representative for the Jan. 1 classic in Pasadena. The three leaders all have a 4-2 conference mark, and a victory by either or both ko's the Spartans hopes.

The Wisconsin-Minnesota game will be seen over Nation wide NBC-TV beginning at 2:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time.

But the Spartans are going to have their work cut out for them against a Miami team that has won five of eight games and is under consideration for an Orange Bowl spot against the Big Eight representative—also being picked Saturday in a pair of crucial games.

There are a bundle of conference titles and bowl bids up for grabs Saturday. Only top-ranked Syracuse, which plays Boston University, is in a bowl, meeting the Southwest Conference champ in the Cotton Bowl. The Orange (8-0) will have a bit of a tussle with BU in trying to hang on to a top ranking in offense, defense and scoring.

The host spot in the Rose Bowl and the Far West Five title will be decided Saturday but two teams are involved. Fourth-ranked Southern California (8-0) is ineligible for a bowl but a victory over UCLA gets the Far West Five crown. Runnerup Washington (6-1) goes for the Rose Bowl with a victory over Washington State.

The host spot in the Orange Bowl and Big Eight Conference title are tied together too. Conference leader Oklahoma (4-1) can't return a second consecutive year so the battle looms between runnerups Kansas and Missouri, both 3-2 which play each other, and Iowa State (3-2) which plays Oklahoma. A Sooner victory eliminates the Cyclones, but reversal, plus a victory by Kansas or Missouri throws the Big Eight to a three-way tie with the bowl spot up to the conference.

The Southeastern Conference, won by Georgia (No. 6) last week, has a number of bowl possibilities, including second ranked Mississippi which is idle; third-ranked Louisiana State which meets Tulane; Tennessee which plays Kentucky and Alabama, which faces Memphis State. Georgia takes on Georgia Tech, also harboring bowl hopes. One of the SEC group will be in the Sugar Bowl, with a rematch between LSU and Mississippi looming.

Tenth-ranked Texas Christian (6-2) meets Rice and hopes to climb to a tie for second place with idle fifth-ranked Texas (4-1) in the Southwest Conference. Leader Arkansas (5-1) plays a non-conference game with Texas Tech.

Penn State (No. 7), on the verge of officially accepting a bid to Philadelphia's Liberty Bowl, plays intra-state rival Pittsburgh, which is also interested in a bowl after turning down a bid to Louisville's Blue Grass affair.

KSU Coach to Conduct MAC Cage Clinic

Kent State basketball coach Bill Berkta will conduct the annual Mid-American Conference basketball clinic Sunday from 9:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. in Memorial Gym.

More than 75 coaches and officials from the MAC are expected to attend the session which will feature a discussion of rule changes and interpretation for the 1959-60 season.

Visitors to the clinic will be guests of Kent State Saturday at the football game between the Golden Flashes and Louisville University.

Massillon Football Schedule Announced

Massillon High School's 1960 football schedule announced today by Assistant Coach Nick Coso Jr. shows three new foes.

Columbus Central, Cincinnati Roger Bacon and Toledo Waite have replaced Akron South, Canton Lincoln and Akron Garfield on the slate.

The 10-game schedule for the Tigers is as follows: Sept. 16, Cleveland Benedictine, home; Sept. 23, Columbus Central, home; Sept. 30, Alliance, away; Oct. 7, Steubenville, home; Oct. 14, Cincinnati Roger Bacon, home; Oct. 21, Mansfield, away; Oct. 28, Warren, away; Nov. 4, Toledo Waite, home; Nov. 11, Barborton, home; and Nov. 19, Canton McKinley, home.

End Loosens Foes' Defenses

Brown Credits Howton With Improving Passing Attack

CLEVELAND (AP) — Give veteran end Billy Howton credit for improving the Cleveland Browns' passing game. His acquisition has added to the team's strength as a contender for the National Football League championship.

A year ago the Browns were weak in passing. They wound up in a tie for the Eastern Conference title, then lost in a playoff to the New York Giants.

To get Howton, the Browns had to give up plenty in the trade with the Green Bay Packers—halfback Lew Carpenter and defensive end Bill Quinlan.

But Coach Paul Brown doesn't regret the trade one bit.

"No question about it, Billy helps to loosen up the defenses," says Brown. "They can't double up on everybody. Now Ray Renfro has a better chance of shaking loose."

"Howton has fitted into our squad well. He has the speed and the know-how and I like his attitude. I think it was a good trade."

Howton, a 29-year-old, 190-pound Texan, was thinking of quitting pro football last winter. The Packers had treated him well but it was somewhat discouraging to play for a team that never finished higher than third in his eight pro seasons there.

Now as the Browns head into Sunday's encounter with the Pittsburgh Steelers tied for the conference lead with the Giants (6-2), Howton is happy about playing with Cleveland.

"I really believe I'm enjoying this more than any other season," he says. "The Browns' organization is a good one. I like the way things are handled here."

"I haven't thought much about next season, but my feeling is I'd like to play some more."

It usually takes some time for a receiver to become accustomed to a passer, but Howton, the leading Browns' receiver with 21 catches for 339 yards, has hooked up smoothly with quarterback Milt Plum.

Like fans and other players, Howton is impressed by Cleveland's offense, featuring fullback Jimmy Brown and halfback Bobby Mitchell in addition to the passing game.

"It's by far the best offense I've ever been on and may be the best I've ever seen," he says.

Pro Grid League Officials See Salary War Possibility

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pro football officials in both the National Football League and the infant American Football League are approaching their draft meetings with tongue in cheek utterances about the possibility of another full scale salary war.

Acting Commissioner Austin H. Gussel of the NFL foresees the possibility of a money battle but hopes it doesn't materialize.

Harry Wismer, president of the AFL's New York franchise and a league spokesman, feels the salary scale will go up but not high enough to hurt either league.

Wismer himself Thursday offered a case in point which could be the tipoff to things to come.

Appearing at a meeting of cigar executives in Philadelphia the radio and television personality announced that quarterback Richie Lucas would be New York's first pick in the AFL draft at Minneapolis next week.

He was asked if bidding for a player of Lucas' pro potential wouldn't fire a new battle of dollars.

"We're not going to fight any one," Wismer said, adding "I'd say Mr. Lucas will be in a commendable position."

Gussel, softspoken former FBI agent filling in for the late Bert Bell, approached the problem realistically.

"It is inevitable that in some cases there is going to be heavy bidding. Salaries are going to go up. I don't see how it can be prevented. But, of course, there are other things the players will have to think over."

"There is the fact that we are established, offer a player security. We have a hospitalization, insurance and benefit plan. The players know we've been here a long time and will be here awhile longer. We aren't looking for a money war. It won't do any of us any good."

The AFL is going to take first crack at the college player grab bag. The new league meets Monday to draft 40 players for each of its eight teams—New York, Los Angeles, Houston, Dallas, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Denver and Boston. The latter became the final member of the circuit Thursday when Philadelphia Bob Carpenter passed up an opportunity to apply for a franchise.

Xavier Has Bad Season, But Still Loves Coach

CINCINNATI (AP) — Xavier University had only a 4-6 football record this year but the president of the school says he hopes its relationship with Coach Ed Doherty "will last a long time."

The Rev. Paul O'Connor, president of Xavier, put it this way Thursday night at the annual football banquet:

"The courtship was short. The honeymoon is still on and I trust the marriage will last a long time."

He had referred to the fact Doherty took over the Musketeers only about two weeks before the season. Doherty was named when Harry (Mick) Conolly resigned during the summer.

Jim Mullen, a junior end from Cincinnati; Ron Costello, junior quarterback from Erie, Pa., and co-captain Tom McGraw, senior center from Cincinnati, were award winners.

Mullen was elected captain of the 1960 team and the most improved player on the squad. Costello was picked as most valuable back and McGraw as most valuable lineman.

AIR FORCE HELD ANDY
NEW YORK (AP) — When the Air Force tied Army 13-13 in their first meeting, the Falcon defense was a big item. It held Army's Bob Anderson to 19 yards on 8 carries in the second half. In the first half, halfback Anderson gained 51 yards on the ground. He scored Army's two touchdowns and made four of its six first downs in the first half.

Gus Bell, 31, Cincinnati outfielder, had his best year driving in runs last season. He had 115.

Tilt to Decide MAC Title

Ohio University Faces Bowling Green

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State travels to Michigan Saturday for its closing tilt with Michigan—a "so what?" game between two lowly Big Ten also-rans.

But Ohio football fans have something going for them, anyway. That would be a trip into the Buckeye hill country for a two-fold purpose.

The jaunt would be to Athens, for a look at the nature-painted foliage famed throughout the state, and to see Bowling Green and Ohio University battle it out for the Mid-American Conference championship.

Bowling Green has half the crown wrapped up, and could take it all with a conquest over the Bobcats. Ohio U. needs a verdict to share the throne.

The Bee-Gees, who last week knocked off top-ranked Delaware for their eighth straight win, are slight favorites. Ohio U. has dropped but one game, 24-0 to Miami, and on their home lot, before some 10,000 fans including "Dad's Day" guests, the Bobcats will be scratching.

Bill Hess, the Bobcat mentor, and Doyt Perry, Bowling Green's canny coach, are former aides to Woody Hayes at Ohio State. Ohio University has passed but 68 times in eight games, while the Bee-Gees have thrown 145 times.

Fullback Bob Brooks, with 776 yards in 129 carries, is the big Bobcat threat. He has scored 44 points to lead the team. Chuck Comer is Bowling Green's top ground-gainer with 352 yards in 51 runs, but the main threat is quarterback Bob Colburn.

Colburn has completed 57 of 102 passes for 785 yards and five touchdowns, and has had only three interceptions. In all departments Bowling Green has outgained Ohio U. 2994 yards to 2601, and the Falcons have allowed only 1656 yards to the Bobcats' 1956.

In addition to the Bobcat-Falcon fray, Saturday's slate has Wichita at Dayton, Louisville at Kent State, Bluefield at Central State, and Baldwin - Wallace at New Haven State.

But the 2 p.m. (EST) Athens attraction is the only one in which a championship share is involved.

Redlegs Ask for Waivers on Lockman

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds today asked for waivers on veteran infielder-outfielder Whitey Lockman and General Manager Gabe Paul said he wanted to release Lockman his unconditional release and then hire him as a coach.

"We want to keep him in our organization because we have such a high regard for him," said Paul. The Reds got Lockman, 33, from Baltimore during last season and in 52 games he hit .262.

Lockman started his major league career with the then New York Giants in 1945. He was with the Cardinals for a time in 1956 and then went back to the Giants. He was released to Baltimore after the 1958 season. His best hitting year was 1949 when he batted .301.

Thursday night, Willard Schmidt relief pitcher for the Reds the past two seasons, was assigned outright to Seattle of the Pacific Coast League.

The 30-year-old righthander came to the Reds in 1958 after two full seasons and parts of three others with the St. Louis Cardinals.

He had a 3-5 record in 1958 and was 3-2 last season.

Mt. Union Names Its All-Opponent Team

Three Muskingum graders were selected to Mount Union College's 1959 All-Opponent football team which was announced today.

Muskingum was also named by the Raiders as the best squad they faced this season. The Muskies' fullback Bill Cooper was selected the best back and tackle Ed Kohler the best lineman. The third Muskingum grider given a first team nod was end Bill Descker.

Other first team choices are center Max Ulrich and halfback Dick DeHaven of Ohio Wesleyan; guard Bob Cook and halfback Al White of Capital; tackle Dick Franta and quarterback Ron Lancaster of Wittenberg; guard Jim Semester of Akron; and end Lu Wims of Wooster.

In the second team backfield are halfbacks Frank Lomax and Gino Calcio of Akron; quarterback Bill Frazier of Muskingum; and fullback Steve McClellan of Wooster.

The ends are Jim Nave of Wittenberg and Dick Heaston of Ohio Wesleyan; the tackles Ed Howard of Wooster and Paul Creager of Wittenberg; the guards Larry Davis and Jack Bain of Muskingum; and the center Gary Hornback of Anderson.

Carryover Problems Beset Coach At Beaver Local School

Lack of height and poor shooting hampered the Beaver Local basketball squad last season and Coach Jack Frontone fears the Beavers may be faced with the same troubles this year.

Frontone expects to have a predominantly junior starting lineup and feels that the team may come on strong late in the season after they have gotten some experience under their belts.

Tallest man on the squad is Jim

Banner, a 6-3 junior transfer from Tennessee. His brother, Tom, a 5-10 senior, is another addition to the varsity squad.

The Beavers have two good rebounders back this year. They are Thurman Allen, 6-2 senior, and Mike Durbin, 6-2 junior. Possibly the key to the Beaver Local attack will be Dick Barnhart, a clever 6-0 junior.

Other candidates include Bill Reed, 5-10 junior; Jim Pike, 5-10 junior; Tom Taylor, 5-11 senior; Lloyd Zeigler, 5-11 senior; and George Shaw, 5-11 senior. Two bright sophomore prospects, John Baker, and Dave Hawkins, have also entered the picture.

Working with Frontone at the coaching reigns this season will be Floreal Suarez, a graduate of Salem College. Frontone, a 1951 graduate of Wellsville High School received his college training at the University of Pittsburgh.

The Beavers have an 18-game schedule lined up with half the contests scheduled for the home floor. They open Dec. 1 at home against Southside.
